

Last name, First name	E-Mail	Institutional affiliation	Postal address	Research profile
Blakesley, Christopher	cblakes@gmail.com	University of Wisconsin- Madison	31 University Houses Apt. C Madison, WI 53705	My work is focused on the development and (design-based) research of structuralist approaches to authoring interactive narratives for learning. As many disciplines continue to value experiential learning through simulations, educational technologies can provide designed experiences that be enhanced through narrative elements and game mechanics. Interactive narratives provide a constructivist and constructionist approach to learning. While much investigation is happening concerning games for youth learning, I am also interested in adult (andragogy) learning through narrative-based games, or interactive narratives.