

Last name, First name	E-Mail	Institutional affiliation	Postal address	Research profile
Hooper, Myrtle	mhooper@pan.uzulu.ac.za	University of Zululand	Private Bag X1001 Kwa Dlangezwa 3886 KwaZulu Natal South Africa	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - silence in narrative, especially as this reflects culture and identity - the interplay of privacy, politeness and power in fiction - the ethics of reading, approached through studies of stylistic features of narrative (e.g. modality, negativity, allusion) - embodiment in narrative - (these theoretical interests are pursued through detailed analysis of work by Joseph Conrad and by Southern African writers of fiction)