The dynamic aspects of plots, especially in fictions, were dealt using poetic, rhetoric, cognitive and emotional perspectives. I also collaborate with researches in the fields of newspapers serialized narratives and language biography. More recently, my interest is oriented toward the connections between narratives and reality. Insisting on the plot's discordance, this new problematic implies a critic of Ricoeur's conception of the three mimesis, and of the supposed equivalence between configuration and plot. I'm also interested in problems of enunciation, polyphony, scenography, ethic and alethic dimension of narrative discourse.
